Welcome to the Fifth Annual
Hawaii International Conference on Social Sciences

Aloha!

We welcome you to the Fifth Annual Hawaii International Conference on Social Sciences. This event offers a rare opportunity for academics and other professionals from around the world to share their broad array of perspectives. True to its primary goal, this conference provides those with cross-disciplinary interests related to social sciences to meet and interact with others inside and outside their own discipline.

The international attendees to this conference bring a variety of viewpoints shaped by different cultures, languages, geography and politics. This diversity is also captured in the Hawaii International Conference’s unique cross-disciplinary approach. The resulting interaction energizes research as well as vocation.

With Waikiki Beach, Diamond Head and the vast South Pacific as the backdrop, this venue is an important dimension of this conference. For centuries a stopping place of explorers, Hawaii has historically been enriched by the blend of ideas that have crossed our shores. The Hawaii International Conference on Social Sciences continues this tradition in the nurturing spirit of Aloha. Along with its ideal weather and striking beauty, the Hawaiian Islands provide natural elements to inspire learning and dialogue.

The 2005 conference was a great success. We hosted more than 350 participants representing more than 40 countries. Thank you for joining the 2006 Hawaii International Conference on Social Sciences!

Keynote Speaker:

JOHN I. GILDERBLOOM, PH.D.
Director of Center for Sustainable Urban Neighborhoods
Professor of Urban and Public Affairs University of Louisville

John I. Gilderbloom, (Ph.D. 1983, University of California — Santa Barbara), is tenured Professor of Urban and Public Affairs in the Graduate Program in Urban and Public Affairs at the University of Louisville. He currently directs Center for Sustainable Urban Neighborhoods at the University of Louisville. Since 1992 his competitive federally funded grants have been nearly $4 million dollars. He has brought in from non-federal sources over a million dollars from private foundations, churches and local government. Since he earned his Ph.D, Gilderbloom's economic policy research has appeared in twenty-four refereed journals, twenty chapters in edited books, eleven monographs and twenty-five opinion pieces in newspapers and magazines. He is editor of a book on housing policy; co-author of Rethinking Rental Housing (Temple-1988) and co-author of Community Versus Commodity: Tenants and the American City (SUNY 1992). His book Rethinking Rental Housing, was declared, "the most significant piece on housing policy written in the last 30 years" by the Journal of the American Planning Association. A survey of college housing courses by the national Housing Institute found it to be the most widely chosen book. Community Versus Commodity: Tenants and the American City has been hailed as "fascinating... a model of qualitative research... nearly flawless... a masterful combination of historical information, fieldwork and theoretical analysis... it is worthwhile reading for urban scholars, social movement scholars, and methodologists." according to the American Journal of Sociology. In July of 2005 SUNY Press released: Promise and Betrayal: University and the Creation of Sustainable Urban Neighborhoods which includes an introduction by former HUD Secretary Henry Cisneros and in the appendix letters of support from President Bill Clinton and, former Harvard President Derek Bok. A DVD based on this book will be released in 2006. Dr. Gilderbloom’s next book, Invisible Cities: Progressive Housing, Planning and New Urbanism will be published in 2007 with the University of Texas Press. Dr. Gilderbloom is now working on a sixth book on Cuba.

He is also part of a progressive speaker's bureau for the Institute for America's Future http://www.ourfuture.org/sb/sb.asp in Washington D.C. Dr. Gilderbloom is also the Director of Sustainable Urban Neighborhoods http://www.louisville.edu/org/sun

As an undergraduate, Gilderbloom graduated with the highest grade point average (4.0) at the University of California at Santa Barbara. Gilderbloom has received honors for his research on public policy from the American Society of Landscape Engineers, Western Governmental Research Association, American Planning Association Chapter Award, Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, Mayor of Houston. Sierra Club, Harvard Innovations in Government, and American Institute for Architects. In 1987 and 1990, he received two "teacher-of-the-year" awards at the University of Houston and University of Louisville respectively. The College of Business and Public Administration gave Dr. Gilderbloom the 1993 award for outstanding researcher award and in 1997 another award for "superior achievements in grant activity. In 1994 Governor (Brereton) Jones commissioned him the status of "Kentucky Colonel." Gilderbloom has provided research assistance for President Clinton's Council on Sustainable Development and National Economic Council. In addition, Gilderbloom has also provided assistance to National Geographic Magazine, City of Houston, City of Los Angeles, City of Louisville, Social Science Research Council, Shatil of Israel, Ontario-Canada, United States Congress, United States Department of Housing and Urban Development, and State of California Department of Housing and Community Development. The White House Chief of Staff Office and National Economic Council consulted Gilderbloom on President Bill Clinton's 1993 state-of-the-union address.

In the Clinton administration he was hired as a consultant to estimate the economic impacts of the empowerment zone, enterprise community and Section 108 programs. In January 1994, in an address to the U.S. Conference of Mayors, President Clinton gave "a special word of thanks" for an op/ed article Gilderbloom co-authored with Louisville Mayor Jerry Abramsom in the Washington Post on the successful "Russell project" in Louisville. President Clinton told the Mayors in the White House: "you made the point that, I have seen in Louisville, Cleveland, and Chicago and many other places that there really are things we can do if we have the right sort of partnerships…. and you have helped to put a fresh note of reality in our discussion, and I appreciate that very much...Our community empowerment agenda is the beginning of that work, and it can lead to a lot more projects like the one discussed in your fine op/ed piece." Currently he is conducting a $210,000 evaluation of the Hope VI program in Newport, Kentucky. The Republican National Committee recently honored Gilderbloom by declaring him “2003 Businessman of the Year” and making him honorary Chair of the Business Advisory Council. In 2005 Planetizen called, Encyclopedia of 20th-Century Architecture one of the 10 best planning and architecture books--Gilderbloom’s contribution was a chapter was on modern Cuban architecture.

He has lectured at Harvard, MIT, Stanford, Cornell, University of California (Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Berkeley), University of Southern California, Princeton, Yale, Pennsylvania, University of Virginia, Rice and Michigan. He has also lectured in Canada, France, Netherlands, Italy, Venezuela, Mexico, Costa Rica and Cuba.
